Melbourne Law Masters 2018

Tax and International Tax

The wide-ranging and innovative tax specialisation at Melbourne Law School is the product of a creative partnership between the profession and the School.

Melbourne Law School's specialisation in tax is a globally recognised specialist tax law degree. The program provides a valuable enhancement to the careers of lawyers, accountants and other professionals working as tax advisers in business or in government.

Students in the tax specialisation benefit from the School's well-developed partnerships with industry and the profession. Subjects are taught in small class sizes by leading Australian and international tax professionals, judges and academics, allowing students unique insight into the global trends and current developments in tax practice. A focus on new and innovative areas in tax law gives graduates of this specialisation a competitive edge in the professional setting.
