

SCR

Call for Papers: Early Career Statelessness Scholars Special Issue

In 2023, the Statelessness & Citizenship Review (SCR) will dedicate a special issue to the work of early career statelessness scholars, in particular GPS \(Global PhDs on Statelessness\) Network members.

The SCR publishes original articles that present research results and/or theoretical reflections in the different areas of citizenship and statelessness studies. For this special issue, we are keen to showcase the breadth of approaches, methodologies, theoretical frameworks, and innovation amongst early career scholars. A workshop will support interested researchers by creating a space for peer support and for potential contributors to receive feedback prior to submission.

If you do not currently have a topic in mind for a full article but would like to be involved, please do get in touch with us as we will have other opportunities for early career scholars to be part of the special issue, such as writing book reviews and commentary pieces.

24 Feb 2023 First draft submission deadline

13 March 2023 Author Workshop

28 April 2023 Submission Deadline

Fall 2023 Publication

Enquiries: info@screview.net

Further information and submission guidelines