Governing the Energy Transition: the Potential and Limitations of Corporate Law Tools

Prof. Jacqueline Peel
Presentation to Energy Transitions Workshop
UNSW, Sydney, 5-6 February, 2019
Acknowledgments

• This paper draws on research under an ARC DP16 grant on “Devising a Blueprint for Corporate Energy Transition” (CI – Jacqueline Peel; PIs – Brett McDonnell and Hari Osofsky; SRA – Anita Foerster)
Structure of paper

• General shift from government to governance and increasing interest in role of NSAs like private sector
• What is the role of companies in energy transition governance?
• How is that role shaped by corporate law tools such as disclosure, shareholder resolutions and directors’ duties?
• Empirical research on how these tools being used and perceptions of their effectiveness
Conclusion – potential but major limitations